Revolution In Trade Beginning

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(First of Four Articles)

The entire economic apparatus of the free world, and hence its political arrangements, are now moving rapidly toward the supreme watershed of modern history.

This revolution—for it is nothing less—has been precipitated by three profound decisions: The creation of the European Common Market, Britain's entry into the new continental economy and the United States' attempt to broaden that experiment into a free-world economic community.

But those events are only the overt signs, the mere beginning of the revolution.

Whether it will succeed or fail is by no means certain yet. Either way, the affairs of Canada must soon be transformed. While that transformation is the immediate concern of the Canadian people, it is a minor aspect of the great shift which, barring nuclear war, must eventually decide the world struggle between freedom and Communism.

All these reductions will apply to every member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, including Canada, but later on Canada also will be asked, probably compelled, to revise its whole tariff structure.

As explained by Washington officials who are managing the present complex bargain, it cannot be revolutionary in its immediate effects, since President Kennedy has little elbow room for negotiation under existing laws. Nevertheless it is a decisive step toward his ultimate goal of a freely-trading free world. It is the pledge and warranty of his government's intentions, the first pier of a commercial bridge across the Atlantic.

The constructive opportunities and the destructive possibilities of the bewildering process now in flow will be explored in this series of dispatches but the first fact confronting a reporter in Ottawa and Washington today is quite clear—the United States already has started to lay the foundation of a free world economic community by offering a new trade deal to the European Common Market.

Though this is not generally known and has not been revealed officially, the United States proposes, within a month, to reduce its tariff on many commodities, provided the Common Market does the same.

These reductions will apply to every member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, including Canada, but later on Canada also will be asked, probably compelled, to revise its whole tariff structure.

As explained by Washington officials who are managing the present complex bargain, it cannot be revolutionary in its immediate effects, since President Kennedy has little elbow room for negotiation under existing laws. Nevertheless it is a decisive step toward his ultimate goal of a freely-trading free world. It is the pledge and warranty of his government's intentions, the first pier of a commercial bridge across the Atlantic.

Common Market Must Open Door

For the moment the United States will be satisfied if it can persuade the Common Market to reduce its proposed external tariff on many kinds of industrial goods by about 20 per cent and thus to avoid a restrictive import policy menacing to the outside world, especially to the Commonwealth.

Negotiations to this end are now at the final, critical stage but the United States government believes they will succeed before the end of the year at latest. If so, a grave danger will be forestalled in the nick of time and a chance of further progress will be assured.

The exact amounts of the tariff reductions and the commodities involved are a secret more closely guarded than any of themselves they cannot greatly alter the currents of world trade, though they can provide substantial benefits to a large exporting nation like Canada, particularly in the American market.

Their true importance, however, does not lie in their specific benefits. It lies in their momentous implications.

Using his constitutional authority to reduce various tariffs by a maximum of 20 per cent over a four-year period—an authority long unused—President Kennedy is assuring Europe and the free world that he is prepared to undertake the largest revision of trade policy since the invention of the protectionist American system more than a century ago.

JFK Crossing 'Rubicon of Career'

As an economic statesman he is crossing the Rubicon of his career.

The United States will not and cannot join the Common Market, as Britain is doing, but no such formal membership is required for the president's purposes, or for Canada's.

Mr. Dillon, secretary of the United States treasury and the leading Republican advocate of free trade, puts his government's practical, pragmatic approach to these problems in a nutshell.

The United States, he says, must "revolutionize" its trading practices with the long-run goal of eliminating industrial tariffs altogether, some years hence.

For the President the drastic overhaul of trade policy represents a daring political adventure second in significance and risk only to the preservation of peace. Indeed, were it not for the current military crisis, the decisions now being taken at Washington would dwarf all other news in the world.

Mr. Kennedy's economic demarche has been over-

Guests Rescued As Hotel Burns

SASKATOON (CP)—The 109-room King Edward Hotel here crumbled in ashes Monday night in a spectacular fire which was no sooner extinguished than the four-block-distant Gatineau Club went up in flames.

Police said today they did not believe any of the 11 persons still unaccounted for from the hotel fire had been trapped, although the ruins still were too hot to search.

They said the guests were believed either not in the hotel or to have escaped without notifying anyone. Names of the 11 persons were listed in the hotel guest register.

Firemen rescued an unconscious woman from a cafe on the main floor of the three-storey wooden Gatineau Club and several firemen were overcome by smoke while fighting the blaze there.

Paul Gurski, manager of the 55-year-old downtown King Edward which stood at Avenue A and 20th Street, estimated the hotel loss at $250,000.

Mr. Gurski sounded the hotel fire alarm and ran along corridors pounding on doors to warn guests. Some didn't take the alarm seriously, he said, and he had to force a few of them to leave.

TO BE REVIEWED

The assembly trusteeship committee and the assembly itself will review the reports in turn.

The committee, in a draft resolution, charged South Africa has reinforced its troops in the territory, that local police raided native homes, and that South Africa's policy is one of oppression of the natives that has resulted in bloodshed.

Despite two heavily adverse votes in the UN special political committee Monday night, South Africa apparently weathered the storm as far as expulsion or sanctions are concerned.

Twice within an hour the 103-member committee hammered South Africa by approving resolutions that in the overall

UN Vote Calls For African Nuclear Ban

Western Powers Object

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The main United Nations political committee today brushed aside opposition of the Western nuclear powers and called for recognition of Africa as a denuclearized zone.

The vote on the African-sponsored resolution was 57 to 0 with 42 countries abstaining. It not only called for a halt to all nuclear weapons testing in Africa but urged all countries to refrain from transporting or storing hydrogen or atomic bombs on African territory.

The United States and France voted against two key provisions of the resolution in paragraph-by-paragraph voting, but on the resolution as a whole they abstained along with Britain, a substantial number of Western European countries and some Latin American delegates.

SOVIET BACKS PLAN

The Soviet bloc voted with the majority for the resolution.

The Western powers objected to having such restrictions voted for only one part of the world. The move hit directly at France which has a nuclear testing base in the Sahara.

The committee also approved an Afro-Asian proposal declaring the use of nuclear weapons in a war a violation of the UN charter and a crime against mankind. The resolution called on acting UN secretary-general U Thant to explore the possibility of convening an international conference to outlaw the use of nuclear weapons in war.

EAST VS. WEST

This was approved by a vote of 60 to 16 with 23 countries abstaining. The United States, Britain and France were among those voting against the resolution. The Soviet bloc voted for it.

Both this and the proposal to denuclearize Africa were assured final approval by the General Assembly in view of the substantial majorities they received.

The Western powers insisted that any ban on the use of nuclear weapons should be taken up as part of the UN debate on general disarmament.

This debate was scheduled to follow immediately after the nuclear debate in the political committee.

Italian delegate Gaetano Martino asked why the Russians had tried to make an East-West issue of the proposal aimed at outlawing the use of nuclear weapons in war.

"Do you really believe," he asked, "that the Soviet Union intends not to use nuclear weapons in time of war? Or that the United States and Britain, by voting against this resolution, intend to use nuclear weapons?" The Soviet Union has no intention of abiding by this resolution.

The Western powers insisted that any ban on the use of nuclear weapons should be taken up as part of the UN debate on general disarmament.

This debate was scheduled to follow immediately after the nuclear debate in the political committee.

The UN spokesman said the Italians were maltreated during their arrest and at least 20 shots were fired. One Italian was reported to have been badly injured.

VOTE CALLED FOR FINLAND

HELSINKI (AP)—President Urho Kekkonen today dissolved the Finnish Parliament and called for new elections early next year.

The president acted shortly after it was disclosed that Russia has indicated that if Finland guarantees to continue a policy of friendship with the Soviet Union consultations on joint defence might not be necessary.

President Kekkonen said the present international situation demands decision that cannot wait until after the regular parliamentary elections next summer.

UN PROBE BELIEVES

Tshombe Saw Lumumba Die

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A United Nations investigating commission expressed belief today that Patrice Lumumba, former Congo premier, was executed last January in the presence of high officials of Katanga Province including Premier Moise Tshombe.

The commission described as "staged" the account by Katanga officials that Lumumba and two other associates were killed by tribesmen last Feb. 17.

The commission said it accepts as substantially true evidence indicating Lumumba and his associates were killed on Jan. 17 after their arrival in a villa not far from Elisabethville, capital of the secessionist province.

It was not until Feb. 13 that the Katanga radio first announced death of the fiery Congolese leader.

Considerable doubt was expressed at the time over the veracity of the announcement and the commission's findings substantiated claims that Lumumba was killed long before his death was announced.

The UN General Assembly established the commission last April.

SUSPECT MERCENARY

The commission declared that "a great deal of suspicion is cast on a certain Col. Huyge, a Belgian mercenary," as being the actual perpetrator of Lumumba's murder.

It said the murder was "committed in accordance with a prearranged plan and that a certain Capt. Gat, also a Belgian mercenary, was at all times an accessory to the crime."

Regarding Lumumba's two associates, Joseph Okito and Maurice Mpolo, "the evidence is not clear as to who actually murdered them, but the indications are that they were murdered about the same time as Mr. Lumumba," the commission said.

The report said the two Belgian mercenaries were in a position to appear before the commission and testify, but that they avoided doing so.

The commission said it wanted to put on the record its views that Congo President Joseph Kasavubu and his aides, as well as the provincial government headed by Tshombe, "should not escape responsibility for the death of Lumumba and his two associates."

It said Kasavubu and his aides had handed over Mr. Lumumba and his colleagues to Katanga authorities, knowing full well in doing so, that they were throwing him into the hands of their bitterest political enemies."

MOCK ATTACK 'DESTROYS' 15 CANADIAN CITIES

Use of Force Questioned as 'Instrument of Policy'

War was denounced Monday as an instrument of national policy by a former chief of the Canadian general staff and chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

General Charles Foulkes, speaking at a joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel, said east and west are facing one another like two scorpions in a bottle, each capable of destroying the other, but at the same time risking self destruction.

"We have gone so far in the production of force that I question the use of force as an instrument of policy," he said.

The general was concerned that the public was being fooled into believing that the risk of world destruction in the event of nuclear war did not exist.

Attempts have been made to minimize the disastrous effects of a nuclear encounter by exaggerating the protective measures of the family fallout shelter," he said.

He called "fiction" a statement made in the U.S. that 97 per cent of the population could survive a nuclear attack if fallout shelters were available.

Closer to reality was President Kennedy's more recent statement that for the first time in history two opposing powers had the capacity to destroy each other.

General Foulkes said the only logical use for weapons of mass destruction now is as a deterrent, since no satisfactory solution can exist when both sides are so evenly matched.

The only hope for the West lies in convincing the Soviets they cannot destroy Western military power completely at the first blow.

General Foulkes called the doctrine of neutrality "that age-old fallacy."

To those who urge Canada's withdrawal from North American Air Defence Command, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other military associations, he would only point out the fate of Belgium in the First World War and Holland in the Second.

Even if Canada succeeded in revoking these entangling alliances, "she cannot revoke geography," he said.

Canada and the U.S. are joined like "Siamese twins" and one can no longer be at war without the other.

"If the U.S. should become involved in war with the Soviet Union, Canada would be exposed to grave damage and gross loss of life."

The only result of a Canadian withdrawal into neutralism would be that she would lose the respect of the U.S. and her other NATO partners.

General Foulkes wouldn't support a doctrine of partial neutrality.

The withdrawal of Canadian forces from NATO would have little military significance in view of the relatively small Canadian contribution to the defence of Europe, and the growing ability of Germany to protect her own territory.

But Khrushchev would welcome such a policy as the signal for the breakup of the TUMS alliance, led by Canada.

The general did not believe that either side could agree to get rid of nuclear weapons altogether. Even if they could, he said, they could not destroy the stockpile of nuclear knowledge possessed by scientists.

SEARCHERS TO DRAG FOR HUNTER

The search was resumed today for missing hunter Gilbert Olmstead, 59, of 3400 Wascana, who is presumed to have drowned in Sooke Harbor during a storm which lashed southern Vancouver Island last Friday night.

Dragging operations likely will be started today after the hunter's empty punt was found Monday.

Mr. Olmstead is thought to have drowned while rowing across Sooke harbor from Whiffin Spit to East Sooke to go deer hunting.

HALF-MILE

John Ferneyhough of Richview Road, Sooke, whose small boat Mr. Olmstead used, said the missing man was in the habit of going across the harbor to hunt any day he wasn't working.

"It's about half-a-mile across and I figure it must have been the high winds that got him," Mr. Ferneyhough said.

"I offered to let him take my bigger boat, which is more seaworthy, but he found it too heavy to row across. He'd have been all right in the bigger one."

"I wasn't at the spot when he left Friday afternoon but the fellows who were, said he was dressed in rain clothes. He evidently intended to hunt for a little time then get back before dark."

PUNT SWAMPED

"When I found out Monday he hadn't returned I notified police right away," said Mr. Ferneyhough.

The punt was found in a swamped condition and with the hunter's gun still aboard on Monday afternoon by police and fish commissioner Art Brooks.

Until two weeks ago, Mr. Olmstead was working at the Moore Whaltington boating grounds and had been living on a barge on Whiffin Spit for some time.

At home in Victoria are Mrs. Olmstead and two daughters, Marie, 23, and Geraldine, 8. "We didn't sleep all night," Mrs. Olmstead said today. "There is still hope."

She said that for some time now her husband had wanted a trailer.

"And he could have had one by now if he hadn't gone hunting," she said.

A man telephoned from Duncan over the weekend to say he had a trailer at Port Hardy and Mr. Olmstead could have it as a present."

TRADE REVOLUTION

shadowed, up to now, by the naked clash of power in Berlin. It has been cloaked in the secrecy of the tariff negotiations with Europe.

But it came into the open last week when the President declared that "the time to begin is now." His government, as he plainly implied, is planning to ask the Congress for sweeping powers of tariff reduction, on a completely new basis, early in the new year.

This decision is not quite final in its timing even yet, it risks in the Congress a shattering defeat for the President and the free world; it is being prepared with acute agony among the President's advisers but the only question is that of timing and political tactics.

The target of eventual economic union between all the free nations is fixed and will not be changed.

For that objective Mr. Kennedy is ready to use all his power, written and unwritten, to argue his case directly with the people, to commit his immense prestige and to hazard his re-election.

As he sees it, his two current problems are apparently separate but actually inter-dependent.

To prevent war in the short run he must maintain the nuclear balance of terror; to preserve peace in the long run and win the struggle against Communism he must begin now the reconstruction of the free world's economy through expanding trade.

If the free world cannot freely unite and maximize its economic energies it will never be able to compete with a Communist empire united by force. If, instead, a new European trade bloc falls to quarreling with America (Canada being ground between the two giants) then Russia will

Political Prisoners Jam Cells

TAMALE (Reuters)—Simon Dieđo Dumbo, leader of the United party opposition in Parliament, told a press conference here Monday that more than 1,000 government opponents were arrested by the police recently.

He said 250 persons were arrested in Kumasi alone and that jail cells there were so crowded prisoners were unable to sleep.

Meanwhile the Queen and Prince Philip drove through the packed cheering streets of the garden city of Kumasi, in West Africa, today, to watch a durbar, traditional gathering of chiefs.

The royal couple, on the second day of their tour of Ghana's northern and central regions, arrived from Tamale Monday night.

President Nkrumah accompanied the Queen and her husband to the local sport stadium, crowded since early morning, to see the colorful durbar.

The Queen paused at a hospital bedside to speak to little Kwame Appiah, seven-year-old son of political prisoner Joe Appiah and his wife Peggy, daughter of the late Sir Stanford Cripps.

Nkrumah, who jailed his boy's father, stepped away from the bedside during the brief conversation.

vote had sufficient majorities for the two-thirds necessary for passage later in the UN General Assembly.

LACK SUPPORT

But key paragraphs and clauses relating to expulsion and sanctions showed in separate voting that they lacked the support necessary to make South Africa the first country to be banned from the UN.

Canada backed a resolution sponsored by India and seven other countries asking all nations to take whatever single or collective action is open to them to prevail upon the South African government to change its apartheid racial separation policy. This passed 72 to 2 with 27 abstentions, including the United States, Britain and France.

SEEKS EXPULSION

The harsher of the two resolutions—sponsored by Ghana, 29 other Afro-Asian countries and Cuba—passed by a vote of 55 to 26 with 20 abstentions. It contained references to expulsion and sanctions. Canada for the first time did not oppose sanctions, abstaining instead.

But the United States, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, France and some South American and Scandinavian countries voted against the resolution.

The vote of Canada, which pumped against sanctions last year, was one of the factors that gave the resolution barely a two-thirds majority.

U.S. Sets New Goal For Atlantic Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will propose this week that the 20 members of the Atlantic community increase their combined economic output 50 per cent by 1970, U.S. officials said today.

George V. Ball, U.S. under-secretary of state for economic affairs, will present the proposal at the conference of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development in Paris Thursday and Friday. Canada and the U.S. are full members of the OECD. Finance Minister Fleming of Canada is chairman of the body.

The organization has three declared aims: To work in the interest of achieving the highest possible economic growth to assist less-developed areas of the world with capital investments and to expand world trade.

The United States believes, officials said, that with the economic recovery of western Europe completed and with the free convertibility of western European currencies generally achieved, it is time to set a new goal. It would raise the present gross national output of the 20-country body from about $900,000,000,000 a year to $1,350,000,000,000 within nine years.

What everyone should know about term insurance!

Term, or temporary, life insurance has many uses—but watch out for possible abuses.

Just as Fire Insurance pays only in the event of fire loss during the life of the policy, so Term Insurance pays only in the event of death before the term expires.

Often The Excelsior Life man will recommend Term Insurance—but only as a temporary coverage where the maximum amount of immediate protection is needed for the least amount of premium. And he endeavours to make certain that this temporary life insurance is converted into permanent personal policies as soon as the owner is able to do so.

There is no equity in Term Insurance which can carry the policy if a due date is missed, and none which builds future security for its owner.

We suggest that you talk to The Excelsior Life representative in your community. He has been selected and trained to help you with all your life insurance problems—and especially assist you to design your own "Blueprint for Security".

'WAR UNLIKELY' NEHRU BELIEVES

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, 72 years old today, says he is convinced Russia does not want war.

He thinks "war is unlikely in the foreseeable future."

He will not have fallout shelters built in India.

He made these comments before flying to Mexico City today after a nine-day visit to the United States and talks with President Kennedy.

Nehru told about 1,700 persons at a Los Angeles World Affairs Council dinner Monday night that he was certain Russia and its leaders did not want a war for these reasons:

"They are doing well. Their people are tired of privation. They want the good things of life."

Earlier, he told a news conference that Russia and Red China differed in that the Soviet Union "is by and large a satisfied country—almost, one might say, a conservative country."

He admitted, however, he "found it difficult to explain" Russia's satellite expansion.

France Threatens to Force-Feed Algerian Hunger Strike Chiefs

PARIS (Reuters)—The condition of Mohammed Ben Bella, leader of a hunger strike by imprisoned Algerian rebel leaders now in its 14th day, today was described by French officials as "not critical."

The officials said that Ben Bella and two other insurgent leaders fasting with him would be force-fed if they lose consciousness or if their lives appear in danger.

Ben Bella and the other two rebel leaders, Ait Ahmed and Mohammed Khidder, were transferred "against their will" to the hospital at Garches between Versailles and Paris.

They were brought to the hospital in a late-night journey from the Chateau de Turquante where they had been detained in central France. Ben Bella was able to walk from the ambulance to hospital room on arrival.

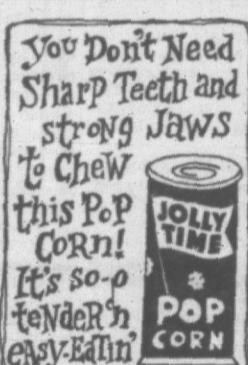

All three have refused to eat since Nov. 1 to back demands for treatment as political prisoners.

New Portrait For Stamps

OTTAWA (CP)—The picture of the Queen that appears on Canadian stamps is to be replaced with something more "attractive and up to date".

The post office department has commissioned four top Canadian artists to design a better, brighter likeness of Queen Elizabeth—the only living person whose portrait may appear on Canadian stamps.

"We hope to announce a new design in the near future," says J. R. Carpenter, chief of the department's philatelic section.

'Give Public Bigger Part To Play'

By STAFF REPORTER

NANAIMO—A mass participation exercise in survival would do much to overcome one of the biggest stumbling-blocks in schemes like Tocsin B, deputy-provincial secretary L. J. Wallace said here today.

Mr. Wallace, chief provincial government official B.C.'s emergency control centre, said the emergency planning was running smoothly but he felt the general public should be given a part to play.

"Soon we must have an exercise in which all the people play a part in the not too-distant future, where they all go through the motions."

"A major stumbling-block is the mental attitude of the people which is slowly being overcome."

"Maybe 100-per-cent participation on the part of the public would do a lot more."

clear fallout reached 500 miles inland Monday night.

To believe, but to the dozens of volunteer civil defence personnel who staffed Victoria target zone emergency headquarters at 1840 Blanshard, it was a realistic part of national survival exercise Tocsin B.

The 24-hour "survival exercise" was triggered simultaneously across Canada with the sounding at 4:08 p.m. of an alert warning, followed eight minutes later by "take cover" on the city's army-operated siren system.

Tocsin B was designed primarily to test administrative and communications plans of local, provincial and national civil defence systems.

TOOK COVER

Theoretically, the citizens of Victoria went under cover into fallout shelters, if they had them—and remained there until instructed to emerge via radio broadcast.

Elsewhere, an enemy rained nuclear havoc on four prime targets of the north Pacific coast: RCAF Station, Comox, where 4,500 died outright and 6,000 were casualties; Vancouver, with 200,000 dead; 130,000 seriously hurt and 128,300 suffering radiation sickness; and the Puget Sound cities of Seattle and Tacoma.

All were supposedly hit by 5-megaton hydrogen bombs or missiles, each with the explosive force of 5,000,000 tons of high explosive, and each sending a cloud of radioactive fallout into the interior, carried on southwesterly winds.

ACT PROCLAIMED

By 6:25 the Civil Defence Act had been proclaimed by the provincial government, giving it wide powers to deal with virtually any situation from its emergency headquarters in Nanaimo.

Later, the federal government invoked the War Measures Act.

A Talent for Success

MR. R. B. "DICK" WILSON, whose successful business career has been accompanied by outstanding community service, brings exceptional abilities to his campaign for the mayoralty.

Dick Wilson headed the university fund campaign for Victoria College, a project of such size many believed it couldn't be carried out. Under his leadership, the campaign exceeded the original objective.

Dick Wilson took over direction of the Community Chest at a time when the Red Feather appeal was languishing. With his energy, organizing talent and direction, the Chest acquired the funds it needed to maintain more than a score of agencies.

These are two, and two only, of the public undertakings Mr. Wilson, the grandson of Victoria pioneers, has carried to a successful conclusion. He accepted the tasks involved in an obviously sincere desire to do something for his city—the town where he was born and in which he earned success in business.

His entry into the mayoralty contest is prompted by the same impulse. He believes that as Victoria moves into its second century there is a clear call for service from Victorians in a position to give their time and capacities to the city's welfare.

This is an attitude completely in accord with fine Victoria tradition—a tradition observed and honored by members of his family for three generations.

It is a happy circumstance which brings into the lists at this time a person so well qualified to aid Victoria's progress following the impetus provided by retiring Mayor Scurrah.

In business life, in the leadership of various organizations here, in the municipal field as councillor for Oak Bay, Mr. Wilson has shown qualifications which suit him well for the office. His background defines a wholesome attachment for the city. His viewpoint reflects an honest appreciation for the expanding importance Victoria can claim in the future.

He recognizes the size of the job confronting a mayor of Victoria in the years ahead. His record proves conclusively that Dick Wilson has never subscribed to the "can't be done" philosophy.

The candidature of Mr. Wilson is encouraging to Victorians who want to vote for a man who knows the city, who has roots in it, who views it in terms of future growth, and has the talents to help stimulate that development.

A Sorry Squabble

WHETHER OR NOT CANADA'S High Commissioner in London, Mr. George Drew, deliberately snubbed the British government by staying away from a briefing on Common Market negotiations—arranged to inform Commonwealth nations and particularly Canada—may not be clear.

Three days after the incident Mr. Drew denied deliberate intent to insult the government of the United Kingdom. The evidence suggests that Mr. Drew—probably acting on orders from Ottawa—did avoid the conference as a pointed protest against Britain's policy toward Common Market membership.

But the details of this particular incident are less important than the background of outright British anger which it has revealed. The Canadian government which made friendship for Britain one of its platform planks has brought relations between the two countries to the lowest ebb in many years. And they appear destined to go still lower.

The deterioration began after Mr. Diefenbaker's promise to divert 15 per cent of Canada's import trade from the United States to Britain. The latter's immediate offer of full free trade between the two countries was quickly rebuffed by Ottawa. Later, when Britain turned to the European Common Market in an effort to meet the new conditions of the world economy, Mr. Diefenbaker and his ministers raised a loud protest.

The protests turned to bullying at the Commonwealth conference in Accra, and there was no mistaking the fact that Ottawa was out to do everything it could to stop Britain's application for membership in the ECM.

Such outstanding and reputable journals as the London Observer and the Guardian of Manchester mince no words in summing up the situation.

Says the Observer: "Reports from Canada state that the government there is hoping some difficulty will prevent Britain joining the Common Market. The report in London is that it is doing something more than hoping."

The Guardian predicts that the "diplomatic tiff" between the two countries may become more serious.

The fact seems to be that Mr. Diefenbaker is now engaged in a down-to-earth fight with London, to the point of diplomatic snubs and ministerial attacks. Whether or not Ottawa can unload the blame for the latest incident upon Mr. Drew personally matters little in the face of the sorry squabble which Mr. Diefenbaker now carries on in the name of Commonwealth unity.

Deep-Freeze or Deep-Fry?

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has given its stamp of approval to fallout shelters built in—or under—the backyard. It is felt that the underground shelters will give better protection from radiation than shelters built in a corner of the basement. The cost is much greater, of course—running up to about $2,000, compared with $500 for the basement type—but the safety factor is increased.

There had always been an air of unreality about the suggested basement shelters. One read of homes being ignited and burned within many miles radius of the bomb blast, and wondered how it would feel to be cooped up in the basement of a house that was burning to the ground, particularly when the only alternative was to flee into the rain of death outside. There was too much of a suggestion of Dutch oven about the whole thing to make it very attractive.

The backyard dugout sounds much more practical—except for the $2,000, which for most of us will remain theoretical.

Religion and the Presidency

IN AN ACADEMIC STUDY devoid of animosity, a Brookings Institution analysis has delved into the influence religious convictions had on the last United States presidential election.

The analysts find that "it is premature to conclude that the election overruled once and for all the custom that excluded Catholics from eligibility to the presidency."

They come to the conclusion, phrased in a negative way, that "on the total showing, Kennedy ran behind his party in 1960; and it is difficult to believe that he would not have run better if he had not been a Catholic."

Outside observers will form their own judgment on the analysis. Whatever their conclusions, the result of the election proves that the door to the White House is not closed on a basis of religious persuasion.

Poor, Wonderful Bird

ON THE AEGEAN ISLE OF Mykonos lives Peter the pelican—the sole representative there of that bird species "whose beak can hold more than" etc.

Peter is a favorite of the home folk and tourists alike and Peter, they think, is lonely.

To perk up his spirits, some good unknown friends in Louisiana have arranged to send him the right kind of company. But they have a small problem. Nobody knows whether Peter is a gentleman or a lady. So the Louisiana people are going to fly out a male and a female bird, just to make sure.

The pity of it all! A pelican, as the rhyme infers, can stomach only so much. On his Greek island he has been enjoying a sort of splendid solitude. Into it, well-meaning Americans are intruding the makings of the eternal triangle.

Why do they think Peter went there in the first place?

"Sure That's Not a Mirage."

Eventually Preferences Would Have to Go

THE negotiations for Britain's entry into the Common Market, which opened in Brussels last week, are expected here to succeed, if only because no country wants to bear the responsibility for failure. There is widespread suspicion about General de Gaulle's real European ambitions, but even he does not seem prepared to take the blame for keeping Britain out.

The ultimate aim of the Common Market is to remove all customs duties on trade between members, while adopting the same tariffs for imports from the outside world. The experts have to pinpoint places where Commonwealth trade would collide with the European tariff wall.

Last week, then, the Six spoke in unison during Britain's oral examination. It was significant that the list of 17 key questions was put on behalf of the Six by Dr. Walter Hallstein, president of the Common Market Executive Commission.

Mr. Edward Heath, Britain's Privy Seal, passed the oral amid general satisfaction. He has, at the same time, according to the normally sober Paris newspaper Le Monde, been voted pin-up boy of the conference by the ladies of Brussels. But the opening meeting was more than an exchange of charming smiles and generalities. It was "business."

Mr. Heath made it clear that Commonwealth interests had to be taken into account; the Six stressed their determination not to tamper with the essential provisions of the Common Market treaty.

Not Permanent

They were ready to look at Mr. Heath's proposal to solve Commonwealth problems by protocols to the treaty, but protocol arrangements, they said, should not be considered permanent, nor should they undermine the European Community structure.

Expressing their strong feelings on the matter, the Six said: "The exception must not become the rule, nor the rule become the exception." This was more than just a smug remark. It is likely to be the battle-cry of the Six throughout the negotiations.

They made it clear that, in the long run, Commonwealth preferences would have to go. The object of the negotiations, in the European view, is to eliminate colonies, some of whom may seek formal association with Europe.

Britain's six partners in the European Free Trade Association are also reconsidering their attitude to the Common Market. Some have already decided to join. So has Ireland. Britain is keeping the Commonwealth countries informed of developments, and the United States is following the negotiations with keen interest.

Spreading Effect

The British plunge into Europe has sent ripples over a large part of the world. Europeans are now asking where this will all stop. They are afraid that this "monardization" will swamp the United Europe idea or dilute it beyond recognition.

This fear is partly responsible for the current efforts to set Little Europe on the road to political unity. Experts from the Six have begun work on a new French plan for regular meetings of heads of government, with permanent machinery for preparing them and carrying out decisions.

This is not the European Federation idealists have aimed at. It is based on General de Gaulle's proposed confederation—the "Europe of the Fathers" which would co-ordinate European policy without infringing the sovereignty of the member states.

But if it does leave the way open to a later "unified foreign policy," and most level-headed "Europeans" accept it as the best possible arrangement while General de Gaulle reigns in France. There is opposition from the three Benelux countries (Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg) who argue both that the plan does not go far enough towards federation, and that Great Britain should be brought in immediately.

Informed observers believe that the proposal will not finally be ratified until it is clear that Britain will enter the Common Market. But the need for preserving Europe's identity in the face of world pressure is likely to bring the Six into agreement on a political organization within the next few months.

As Our Readers See It

Defends Writer

Re Miss Patricia Young (author of the recent Chatelaine magazine series on the Dunsmuir family).

Personally, I think a journalist is being unnecessarily persecuted.

I have been around journalism because of my friends and acquaintances, and the misrepresentations are ludicrous, but so what? Without this storm in a teacup it would have been forgotten completely already. And many readers were interested in it when they did not know the details. It was well written, which most newspaper articles and biographies often are not.

One is often interested in reading several biographies of famous people written by many authors. They differentiate, or why would one read another? So why squabble about my not being a Catholic?

Outside observers will form their own judgment on the analysis. Whatever their conclusions, the result of the election proves that the door to the White House is not closed on a basis of religious persuasion.

People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.

My public apologies to Miss Patricia Young that she is in such a nuisance situation about us, when I feel sure she meant well.

Dr. Forsey's Position

Only a few days ago, I received a copy of your editorial of Oct. 27, "The Opposite Poles." What you say about me is very kind (too much so), but at some points not altogether accurate.

First, you say that "when the CCF merged with many of the labor unions at a convention last August, Dr. Forsey could not stomach this marriage." The CCF did not "merge" with any "labor unions"; it was absorbed into a new party which the Canadian Labor Congress helped it launch, and to which unions may affiliate. I may add that I had no difficulty about this at all.

Second, in my remarks on price control, during the convention, I did not even mention wage controls. All I said was that in peacetime price control is beyond the powers of the Parliament of Canada. (Incidentally, I am not "expert adviser to various labor unions"; I am research director of the central organization of the CLC.)

Third, my ground for objecting to the proposed Guaranteed Employment Act was not quite as you describe it.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"HELP! A WICKED OL' WITCH IS GONNA PUT ME IN A TUB OF BOILING WATER!"

WASHINGTON:

Message From India

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU's address to the National Press Club was marked with his usual gift of phrase and serenity of judgment but it seemed to miss the mark. The audience wanted to hear his views on the urgent problems of world affairs but instead he chose to talk about the history of India. As a result he lost his audience. He received a standing ovation at the beginning of the address but only polite applause at the end. This is of some importance because it was before this very audience that President Ayub of Pakistan scored his resounding personal triumph. Mr. Nehru did better when he answered questions on today's problems after his speech.

Yet there was an important lesson in Mr. Nehru's speech, if only the reporters listened carefully.

He was saying that the whole tradition of India made it respect the virtue of tolerance as the mark of a civilized society. It made India believe that no nation was the champion of right in the world; and every government had to be judged by its behavior on specific problems. Sometimes India would agree with a government on one issue and criticize it on another but at all times India would be tolerant of the government with which it was in disagreement.

This whole history, Mr. Nehru emphasized, has "conditioned" India's thinking on world problems and shaped its refusal to join any military bloc.

The official statement at the end of the conferences between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Nehru made it clear that Mr. Kennedy had won an important victory in obtaining the consent of Mr. Nehru to the proposition that any treaty on nuclear testing must have inspection and controls in it if it is to have any value.

Still Apart

But on two related issues the two men are still apart. Mr. Nehru wants no testing by the United States while the negotiations continue for a treaty; and Mr. Kennedy has refused to bind the United States to respect another unpolished moratorium with Russia.

On the Common Market Mr. Nehru said that India has received the proposal for a regional trade association with something less than enthusiasm because it seems to threaten India's position in the British market without giving India any compensating advantages in western Europe. He said that there would have to be changes in the organization of the Common Market to enable India's exports to flourish before there could be any important shift in Indian opinion.

In discussing the Berlin problem Mr. Nehru has ruled out war as a solution. He is convinced, on the basis of his own talks with Mr. Khrushchev, that not even Russia wants to solve the problem by military force.

The frontiers in East Europe, though not yet cast in a final legal form, have achieved a degree of permanence by the mere passage of time. They can be changed only by pressure of force or by the rule of reason that removes fear and suspicion.

Mr. Nehru cast all his influence on the side of reason. He said East and West Germany already have many contacts with each other; and in his judgment these contacts should be greatly increased. He warned the United States that the neutral governments of Asia and Africa have the problem of Berlin and of Germany merely "in the fringes of their minds." Their primary anxiety is about their own problems.

Berlin Site

Mr. Nehru said that it might be advisable to move some of the organs of the United Nations to Berlin to make it progressively an international city. He also believed that some agencies of the United Nations might be moved with advantage from the United States to other parts of the world. But he thought the headquarters of the United Nations should remain in New York.

He disappointed his audience by repeating his old familiar arguments about the Kashmir problem and by making his usual ungenerous comments about the government of Pakistan. More magnanimity on this issue would have served his cause very well.

His advisers seem to have failed almost completely to have persuaded him that President Ayub convinced most responsible Americans who heard him that the balance of argument in the Kashmir dispute inclined to the side of India. Mr. Nehru spoke as if he could repeat the arguments used by India ten years ago without receiving an effective reply to them. His reward was silence and scepticism.

Mr. Nehru hopes that Mr. Kennedy will be able to visit India next winter, after the congressional elections have taken place in the United States. The two men have deepened their respect for each other and have promised to consult frequently on world affairs.

That is an important gain. It is regrettable however, that Mr. Nehru, in his visit to the United States, has made a far better impression on officials of the Kennedy administration than he has on American public opinion.

FORMER SEATTLE STAR CALLED UP BY DETROIT

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings Monday called up Marc Boileau, a 29-year-old centre, from their Hershey farm club.

Boileau, who played for Seattle Totems the last three years, will join Wings at Chicago Wednesday for their National Hockey League game with Chicago/Black Hawks.

In exchange, the Wings sent Bob Dillabough, 20, and Parker MacDonald, 27, both wingmen, to Hershey.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

There has been a rumor floating around the country that the best way to beat the life insurance companies is not to fall off a mountain, play Russian roulette or go skin-diving with a group of toothy sharks.

All you have to do, according to the experts, is put your thick head inside a helmet, trot out onto a football field and wait for the referee to blow his whistle, the recognized signal for the hearse-driver to warm up the motor.

There may be something to the noise. Since August, 20 men and boys have died as a result of football injuries. Instead of asking "Why?" there has been a tendency to call for a cessation of "the muckraking of the Roman arena."

The latter is a simple argument advanced by simple minds. People annually fall off large mountains and end up in small boxes. Does this mean we should outlaw mountains? Every time some drivers get into an auto, they begin looking for an accident to happen. Should we eliminate all autos in the interest of human safekeeping?

Free-Wheeling Pros Stay Alive

The "why" of the football fatality toll does not seem overwhelmingly complicated. It stems, it says here, from the crude techniques taught by some coaches and from a set of rules not updated since Aristophanes was bouncing around in short pants.

Some football dissenters put a large amount of the blame for the multiplicity of permanent head-injuries on the helmet. Too hard, too unyielding, an instrument of torture, they call it. Manufacturers claim otherwise. The inner shock band, they say, far more effectively reduces the impact of a direct hit than the old leather headpiece.

The suspicion here is that it is not the helmet but the misuse of it by semi-skilled crew-cutts that causes the trouble.

Take the pros. Nobody tackles with more malevolence, blocks with more disdain for an opponent's health or charges with greater disregard for anyone's feelings than do the men who are paid for it, experienced at it.

Yet history shows not a single member of their clan left this crazy globe this year to meet his maker.

This Is What You Tell the Boys?

College and prep school players made up the 1961 death statistics.

Why? Because there are too many coaches like the one who tells his undergraduate warriors "to stick your helmet in his (the opponent's) face."

This actually isn't what he meant or even what happens. Instead of a low charge, this coach wants his men to hit a foe in the chest. The helmet rises, tilts the enemy's head and the back of the helmet comes down like a Karate blow on the neck.

The same coach repeated the message in B.C. last summer. He didn't tell it to the Lions. He uttered it at a clinic attended by assorted pee-wee, midget and juvenile football coaches.

Said Jack Patrick, playing-coach of Victoria Drakes: "I felt queasy in the stomach listening to him."

This is football by intimidation. Again hear Patrick: "Since spirit is the deciding factor in college and prep football, this kind of teaching, of wearing down the enemy or injury or the threat of injury, may pay off in victories, but it also has to lead to more and often fatal injuries."

Hardly a Game for Fauntleroys

One way to put a halt to the complete nonsense is to reconsider the rules. Some need culling. Others need reinforcing. All must be adhered to.

Skeptics may say this won't stop a win-at-all-costs coach.

Think again. Slap enough penalties on his team and he'll quickly abandon the heavy-handed lessons from his manual.

Today a player can cost his team a five-yard penalty for being outside. The same player can clip the guaranteed method for breaking a leg) or pile on (ruins the ribs better than anything) or be a party to rough play ("put your helmet in his face and follow it with your fist if necessary") and only he'll be halved for 15 yards.

Football is a violent, dangerous sport. To play it other than violently would be imbecile. But the sadists must be tethered, on the sidelines and on the field.

Coaches and players who shun science and artistry for crudeness and savagery must be forced to play within proper rules. This won't make the game as safe as croquet or ping-pong or pin the tail on the donkey.

But for my money, football played within the rules should be rough enough for anybody.

Faloney Vindicated By All-Star Voters

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Don Clark, a spectacular runner who was rejected by two clubs, and the brilliant Bernie Faloney, a quarterback considered expendable a year ago, today joined Canadian centre Norm Stoneburgh as the leaders in the voting for the 1961 Eastern Football Conference all-star team.

Clark, a slashing, fleet-footed ground gainer with Montreal Alouettes, was the only unanimous choice of the voters who picked the mythical all-star of offensive and defensive teams for The Canadian Press.

Faloney, the five-year veteran Hamilton Tiger-Cats tried to pawn off for quarterback Sam Etcheverry in a trade.

Davey Retains Featherweight Boxing Crown

TOKYO (AP) — World featherweight champion Davey Moore, of the United States, dropped game and rugged Kazuo Takayama for a nine-count in the 13th round Monday and outclassed the tough Japanese to retain his title in a unanimous 15-round decision.

Moore, in making his fourth defense, had his hands full in whipping Takayama for the second time in two years. The Columbus, Ohio, Negro, 28, outpointed the 25-year-old Japanese resident of Korean parentage last year.

Moore, one-half pound heavier than the challenger at the maximum 126 pounds, was a heavy favorite, but had constant difficulty trying to solve Takayama's charging tactics.

Three-Year-Old Brings $70,500

NEW YORK (AP) — Try Cash, a three-year-old gelding, sold for $70,500 Monday, the top price of 55 thoroughbreds which went on the auction block at Belmont Park for a total of $123,500.

Try Cash, by John's Joy-Pulcinella; was one of a 10-horse consignment of the Danada Farm-Ada L. Rice stable.

that didn't jell, and Stoneburgh, a standout with Toronto Argonauts for eight seasons, were selected by all but one of the voters.

EVENLY DIVIDED

The selectors—football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the league cities—gave equal representation on the offensive team to all four clubs. The votes were weighted to give equal balloting strength to each league city.

The league-leading Tiger-Cats ended with a total of seven players on the two teams—three on offence and four on defence. The third-place Argonauts and the last-place Alouettes each gained six positions; landing three men on both teams, and the runner-up Ottawa Rough Riders were selected for five spots—three on offence and two on defence.

The Alouettes, although they trailed all season, showed vast improvement defensively over last year and the voters didn't overlook it. Last season Montreal didn't place a man on the defensive team.

Mounties Sign New Manager

VANCOUVER (CP) — John A. (Jack) McKeon, 31, is the new manager of the Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast baseball league. He succeeds Billy Hitchcock, who went to Baltimore Orioles of the American League.

McKeon arrived here Monday with director Sherry Robertson and Joe Haynes, executive vice-president of the American League Minnesota Twins with whom the Mounties have a working agreement for next season.

Chosen by Robertson, the former catcher has never finished out of the first division since he first managed for the former Washington Senators in 1957.

Meanwhile, Mounties announced they have sold catcher Charlie White to the Hawaiian Islanders.

Mountie officials said next season they will have the choice of three triple "A" catchers owned by the Minnesota Twins with whom they have a working agreement.

FEEL YOUNG AGAIN

It's All in the Glands

By LELORD KORDEL

Before my efforts to help you recover lost youth can progress any further, you must realize that a youthful appearance begins inwardly — with healthy, properly nourished endocrine glands.

There is no denying that some of us are born with healthier glands than others.

Yet the fact remains that even an ordinarily healthy set of glands can be neglected and ill-nourished to the point of beginning the aging process years before normal.

NEED NOURISHMENT

If a part of the human body could be described as "temperamental," then I would say the word was coined to fit your endocrine glands and their hair-trigger sensitivity.

They hold unlimited power over every human being, keeping one person young and vigorous despite the passing years, condemning another to a premature old age and thrusting a third into a morass of depressed thoughts and nagging ill-health.

The names of these eight glandular despots are pituitary, thyroid, adrenals, pancreas, thymus, pineal, parathyroids and gonads.

NONE MOST IMPORTANT

When it came time to name secretions of these all-powerful endocrine glands, some imaginative scientist chose the appropriate Greek verb "Hormon," meaning "excite."

For that, in brief, is the intended function of all hormones — to excite your bodily organs into performing at maximum efficiency so you may possess all the vitality, all the magnetism, all the radiance of a healthy, happy person.

The only way you can tell when your glands are not functioning up to par is when you begin noticing the effects of their suffering.

VIBRANCY OF YOUTH

Let's consider the glands which perhaps should rank first in your effort to retain the appearances and sensations of youth.

What qualities or attributes make people say of a certain man or woman: "He (or she)

Eating Plan Free To Readers

If you are seeking that all-over glow your body radiates when you are in excellent health, why not try Lelord Kordel's Better-Eating Plan?

It is designed to give you the protein, vitamins and minerals your body needs for dynamic living.

You may have a copy free by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

Lelord Kordel, care of The Times, 2631 Douglas St.

is so young for his (or her) age?"

My first answer would be sexual vibrancy—for in these two words are contained the confidence, inward feeling of power, energy, vitality, enthusiasm, mental alertness, sense of attractiveness, assurance, stamina and radiant glow which are gifts to the young of any age.

The hormones secreted by the gonads exert a tremendous influence on your physical health, as well as on your ability to retain a youthful appearance and to live a long, useful life.

Protein foods are hormone builders and conditioners. A continued lack of high-grade food protein in your diet can weaken these glands so seriously that old age may gain a head start on you almost before you realize it.

FEED YOUR GLANDS

Nor is protein the only item on the "menu" for your endocrine glands. Foods—and diet supplements—that provide you with all the minerals and vitamins essential to keep a body glowing with health are likewise "musts" in your program for feeding your glands.

In addition to protein foods, iron and copper are important to your glands.

Rich sources of iron are beef liver and other organ meats, dark poultry meat, lean beef and lamb, egg yolks, apricots, prunes, raisins, molasses, whole grains, lettuce, beet tops, leeks and radishes.

Copper is usually present in the foods containing iron, but especially in almonds, dried beans, whole wheat, prunes, calf and beef liver, shrimp and egg yolks.

And then there are the vitamins. Vitamins and hormones are interdependent.

You can't be any younger than your glands. And your glands can't stay young and healthy if they are starved. Foods that benefit your glands are the best youth-sustaining you can buy.

Next: Are you eating too much? Don't dig your nose grave.

Elworthy to Run For Reeve's Seat

Oak Bay councillor Gordon Elworthy has added his name to the list of candidates seeking the reeveship in municipal elections in December.

A member of the council for three years and its present chairman of parks, Mr. Elworthy will campaign on a platform aimed at getting a recreation centre at Firemen's Park.

It should include swimming pool, auditorium, gymnasium, meeting rooms, reference library and reading lounges, he said.

SELF-LIQUIDATING

"It would cost $500,000, perhaps more, but I'm confident a business-like operation could make the project a self-liquidating one."

"As reeve, I feel I could get this badly-needed project moving again."

The other candidates are incumbent Reeve George Murdoch and Jack Barracough, who announced Monday he would seek the top municipal post as his first political venture.

He is a former president of the Family and Children's Service, at the time Spencer's house was built 10 years ago; served on the board of the Community Chest and the Sarah Spencer Foundation, and is a member of the University Development Board.

He is also an ex-governor of the Dominion Drama Festival

MAN, WIFE STAGE DUEL TO DEATH IN STORE

PEMBROKE, N.C. (UPI) — An estranged couple staged a gun duel with matched pistols in a downtown supermarket Monday and killed each other.

Each fired five shots from a .22-caliber pistol and each was struck by five bullets.

The shots were fired at close range as the couple, Marvin Locklear, 31, and his wife, Nina, 27, moved through the store. Customers and employees fled for safety.

They fell to the floor dead at the rear of the supermarket.

"Their feet were almost touching," said assistant police chief Simeon Oxendine.

Locklear had come to the store asking manager Raymond Hendrix if he could get his wife, a store employee, to take him to a veterans' hospital in Fayetteville for treatment of "nerves," Oxendine said.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Plebiscite Asked On District Split

COBBLE HILL—A letter signed by residents here has been sent to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black requesting the government to hold a plebiscite to determine whether ratepayers are still in favor of remaining in School District 65.

A large group of residents want the re-establishment of the old school district. This district included Cobble Hill, a part of Cowichan Bay, Mill Bay and Shawnigan Lake.

ALBERNI—Two Alberni men killed in a crash on the Alberni-Parksville Highway Sunday night have been identified as Pritam Singh Sandhu, 45, of 146 Kingsway, and Gurnam Singh Johal, 42, 817 Seventh Avenue North.

Their car left the highway and crashed into a tree while they were on their way back to Alberni from Victoria. An inquest will be held.

Two Up-Island—hunters thought to be missing Monday morning were found safe later in the day.

An RCAF man, LAC Joe LeClair, went hunting Sunday, failed to keep a rendezvous with a companion and a search was organized in the Iron River area.

He was found at about noon Monday, wet and cold but well enough to return home.

Wellington postmaster Thomas Sawden disappeared Sunday night and a search party was organized by Fish and Game Club members.

He was found unharmed at a Comox Logging Co. claim.

NANAIMO—The Carpenters' Union here is backing up a motor-hotel project now awaiting a decision from city council.

Local 527, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, requested city council to sell land at Comox and Terminal for the motor-hotel construction site.

Hotel operators are opposed to the sale of the site, claiming the construction of a new hotel here would not be in the best interest of the city.

NANAIMO—Dr. Gordon Blott of Nanaimo, president of the Council of College of Physicians and Surgeons of B.C., said here Monday that 2,000 doctors in B.C. will spend $500,000 over the next 10 years on a province-wide medical library.

The library will be the first set up by Canadian doctors.

New Plaza At Duncan Opens Friday

VANCOUVER (CP) — Capital Holdings, a Vancouver-based development company, announced Monday it has completed a $14,000,000 building program and plans $10,000,000 in construction next year.

The company will open Duncan Shopping Plaza, its 10th centre in B.C., on Friday. Mayor Jack Dobson will officiate.

The company said it now has offices in Victoria, Vancouver, Regina, Winnipeg and Thompson, Man. It plans new offices at Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and Fort William. New shopping centres will be opened in B.C., Alberta, Regina, Winnipeg and the Lake Head.

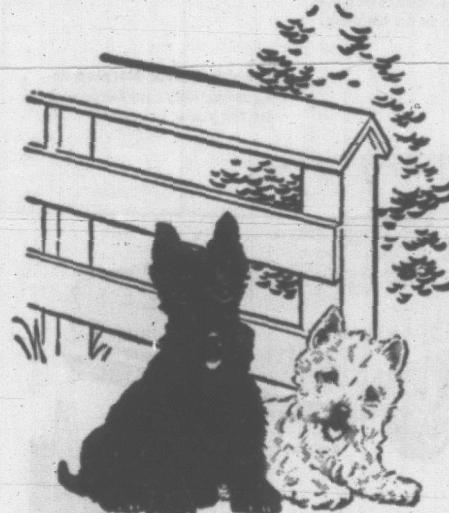

President L. T. Hurst said the company specializes in suburban-type centres instead of large regional centres.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1961—PAGE 13

HERE ... AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Back to New Zealand this month go Bert Stark and his wife Ethel of 644 Speed Street.

They have lived in Victoria 13 years and have made dozens of friends, but . . .

"Life down there seems more sane—more leisurely," says Bert. "They haven't got TV and they aren't worried about it. Nor are they worried over going into debt with every new craze that comes along. They seem to enjoy life without these manias."

Significantly, Bert isn't a native New Zealander. He hails from Winnipeg; yet New Zealand seems to be his spiritual home. He went there in 1937, stayed until 1948, then came to Victoria.

"We've had a wonderful time," he said, "and we have so many good friends here I weep to leave them. But somehow there's always something insecure about Canada. You don't feel that way in New Zealand."

On the phone:
"Is that Civil Defence?"
"No, this is Reliable Wreckers Limited."

Songs of the desperate years ran through Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion on Remembrance Day. Sailors, soldiers and airmen were there to join Ronnie Hamay in the singing of "There'll Be Bluebirds Over the White Cliffs of Dover," "Wish Me Luck as You Wave Me Goodbye" and "Pack Up Your Troubles."

Anne Halley kicked up her legs in the old music hall favorite, "Knees Up Mother Brown"; Jim Mayzes conducted the lively community singing and Humphrey Davy led the crowded company through the mysteries of "Alouette."

A local enthusiast told me a special new tartan was being designed for Victoria's Centennial Year in 1962.

I phoned the Tartan Shop on Government and received a horrid denial.

"That would be impossible," the spokesman said. "There is only one Victoria tartan and that is the Queen Victoria Tartan."

I could almost hear the thunder of the cannons as he spoke.

Tourism became Britain's fourth largest industry in 1960, the British Travel and Holidays Association says in its latest report.

"Yet," the association adds, "the people of Britain and the business community which benefits from tourism are not yet really tourist-minded."

Harmac Mill Expansion Under Study

J. V. Clyne, chairman of the board of MacMillan & Bloedel and Powell River Co., today confirmed reports the company is considering expansion of its Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo.

Any detailed announcement would be premature, he said, because preliminary engineering has yet to be done.

He indicated a definite decision on the extent of the possible expansion and proposed construction schedule will probably be made early next year.

CLEAR SITE

"In the meantime," he said, "the company intends to proceed with site-clearing operations as there is every likelihood that the company will expand its pulp production at Harmac either now or in the future."

In view of this and in order to assist winter employment, it has been decided to do some of the site clearing work in the next few months."

Mr. Clyne said the company intended to keep its position flexible in view of changing world market conditions.

The effect of the European Common Market upon Canadian pulp production remained to be assessed, he said.

500 EMPLOYED

The company mill at Harmac now provides employment for 500 men. It is the largest employer in the Nanaimo area.

In addition to clearing operations at Harmac, Mr. Clyne said his company is spending about $7,000,000 in capital improvements at Powell River.

'HOLDOUT' CANVASSERS PRODDED BY CHAIRMAN

Cautious optimism was the keynote at Victoria United Appeal headquarters today as the total needed to reach $320,000 crept down to $1,155.

Oddly enough the biggest problem facing officials is not the general public but delinquent canvassers who are still completing calls and hanging on to their kits.

"Wednesday is the last day," said chairman Justin Harbord, "and we must have outstanding returns in as soon after that as possible."

The push for extra funds, started Friday, has already resulted in sizable extra donations by firms and individuals and appeal workers are hoping for more.

If the amount is raised it will be the first time in 10 years that the Greater Victoria appeal has succeeded.

Small Car Hit By Fire Truck

22,000 Pounds Versus 1,550 Pounds But Passenger Only Slightly Injured

An elderly man was sent to hospital today after the small 1,550-pound car in which he was a passenger was in collision with a 22,000-pound Victoria Fire Department aerial truck.

Clifford Hinder, 71, of 1337 George, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering abrasions to his face and hands and slight chest injuries.

The collision occurred about 9:15 this morning at the intersection of Yates and Cook Streets as the aerial truck was on its way from the No. 1 Fire Hall on Yates to a fire at the B.A. Paint Co. premises on Belleville.

The car in which Mr. Hinder was riding was driven by Alexander Craib, 103 Bushby, police said.

According to officers the car was headed north on Cook and had the green traffic light at the intersection with Yates. The driver, they said, didn't hear the fire truck's siren.

Damage to the car was described as "considerable."

The fire truck was driven by Gordon Hansen, 3142 Jackson. Only damage to it was a dented left front mudguard.

The fire at BAPCO turned out to be minor—a pile of sawdust had ignited.

Cause of the fire is not known.

A 40-year-old Esquimalt man, William Mendres, was killed Jan. 27 this year when his car was crushed by a 12-ton fire pumper at the intersection of Johnson and Quadra in similar circumstances to today's mishap.

Victor Ingraham, owner of the Ingraham Hotel on Douglas Street, died this morning in St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver.

He was 63.

He had been in hospital for a week.

Mr. Ingraham is survived by the widow, a son and a daughter, all living in Victoria.

Damages was estimated by police at $100.

Two youths in Esquimalt Police court Monday pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing a car valued at more than $50 from the parking lot of the Tudor Public House Oct. 31.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Michael Paine, 454 Fraser, and Donald Lloyd, 962 Inverness, to Monday next week for trial.

The case was sent to Magistrate Ostler from the juvenile court.

Bail was previously set at $500 for Paine and $1,000 for Lloyd.

Annual general meeting and election of officers of the View Royal Ratepayers and Community Association will be held Monday, Nov. 20, at 8:15 p.m. in the Community Hall, 279 Island Highway.

A general meeting of the James Bay PTA will be held tonight at 8 in South Park School.

Willows PTA will meet in the school auditorium Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 8 p.m. A film, "Mining for Nickel," will be shown.

The Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Douglas Building Cafeteria.

The speaker will be Ronald Gadsby of the dept. of recreation and conservation and his subject will be, "A Long-Range Look at Conservation."

DOUBLE-DECK BUSES DUE NEXT SUMMER

Victoria's "little bit of old England" legend will be strengthened next summer by three double deck buses from London.

City public works committee today approved in principle an application by Harold Olafson to use the Belleville Street side of the Inner Harbor as a terminal.

He proposes to operate a waterfront sightseeing tour using three of the distinctive buses.

New Blanshard Route Given

Extension To Follow Rose Street

A route plan for extending Blanshard Street from Arena Way instead of its present terminal at Hillside was approved today by city public works committee.

The route, running generally along the line of Rose Street, still has to be approved by city council.

It will run through the centre of several areas proposed for urban renewal, cut through between Holyrood House and the Bay Street Armory, skirt the west boundary of C. J. Willis Junior High School's playgrounds, slice off the southwest corner of Topaz Park and border the rear frontage of the Baker Brick and Tile property.

COST: $800,000.

City portion of the extension—estimated to cost about $800,000—will end at Tolmie.

The provincial government plans to carry on the extension through Saanich, behind the Town and Country Shopping Plaza and onto the Patricia Bay Highway.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said relocating Blanshard Street westward starting at Memorial Arena would permit the most economical development of the extension.

Right-of-way would be 100 feet to provide a four-lane expressway with an additional 50-foot width added for landscaping of the northern portion of the extension.

CURVE WESTWARD

Present parking islands in front of Memorial Arena will be wiped out to enable the start of the extension to curve westward across the blocking McBride Street then strike northward along Rose Street.

At Topaz Avenue, where Rose ends, the road would make a gentle curve westward again, to keep from slicing more than a tip of Topaz Park, and return to the northerly direction west and parallel to Alder Street as far as the city limit at Tolmie Avenue.

A number of smaller cross streets would be blocked off to permit the extension's use as an expressway into the downtown area.

Underpasses would be built alongside the rear of Baker Brick and Tile property to permit cars to enter and leave the expressway if a major shopping centre is developed at that site as proposed by Vancouver interests.

If the route plan is approved, a $6,000 engineering survey will be undertaken to determine grades and specific routing and provide an accurate estimate of costs.

12-YEAR-OLD NAMED WINNER

Doll Contest to Cheer Children of Hong Kong

Christmas for many a child in Hong Kong will be brighter this year with the gift of a gaily costumed doll.

In co-operation with the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, the Hudson's Bay Company ran its second annual competition in doll-making for children of Greater Victoria.

The youngsters, or their parents, bought a face and white sock kit and dressed them up, the only stipulation being that material had to be scraps from around home and not bought.

Currently on display at the store, the dolls will be flown to Hong Kong in time for Christmas.

The competition is an adjunct to the annual USC campaign for funds and clothing in aid of needy families in depressed areas abroad.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, USC executive director, will address a public meeting in support of the campaign Monday at 8 p.m. in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, Courtney Street.

Winner of this year's doll competition was 12-year-old Beverley Davies, 3365 Painter. Second and third were Sharon Westcott, 14, of 1040 Fairfield, and Joan Hodgkinson, 13, 3840 Cumberland.

Two New Agencies to Pave Way For Harmony on Peace Project

Joint negotiations between all labor unions and all employers on the Peace River power project were established today as each side set up a special "labor council."

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson announced approval by the Labor Relations Board of certifies to the two bodies.

The Allied Hydro Council will represent all unions involved in Peace River jobs.

The Peace River Power Construction Co. Ltd. will represent the B.C. Electric and all sub-contractors.

POOL RESOURCES

The unions and employers affected have already agreed to pool resources in the two new agencies.

Mr. Peterson hailed the move as "a great step forward" in B.C. industrial relations.

It will, he said, ensure labor-management peace throughout construction of the giant hydro project.

It means that all wages and working conditions will be hammered out by the two agencies instead of a huge number of small, separate negotiations.

Mr. Peterson said this will avoid the possibility of a single union's dispute holding up the entire project.

FIRST TIME

He said it is the first time in B.C. that such an agreement had been made.

The idea is similar to the forest industry's system of dealing with the International Woodworkers of America.

All forest management pools its resources for negotiations under the Forest Industrial Management council.

Mr. Peterson said a similar arrangement had also been used during construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway project, and had proved extremely effective in keeping the peace.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me how to flameproof decorations for Christmas? I.M.

A. Dissolve six parts borax and five parts boric acid into 100 to 150 parts water. Warm water makes dissolving easier.

Materials can be sprayed or dipped into the solution, and should not weigh more than 10 to 20 per cent more than their original weight after treatment. Spray curtains and other heavy materials from the top down. A convenient recipe is six pounds of borax, six pounds of boric acid and 12 gallons of water.

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Well-Chosen Gift . . . Something to Cherish

By PENNY SAVER

Sister dear! Are you still furnishing his den? If you are, an especially attractive ash tray and lighter set for Christmas would give his desk a finished look! Made of china, the ashtray is delta shaped and has a groove in which sits a china-covered lighter. The set is in color abstract—yellow, green and brown—and is only $1.49.

I know you've got a teen-age girl on your list. And I also know she's reached the age where she's extremely cosmetic-conscious. So I went looking for gifts for her and I've spotted some adorable little presents.

China dresser dolls, holding bouquets of roses. These dolls feature three insets in their skirts for holding tubes of lipstick. Selling for 89 cents they come in gowns of yellow, pink or blue.

Remember how we used to love perfumes and take their names literally? Girls still dream of a good assortment of nice smells. And I've found an attractive package of five bottles that sell for $2.25. Each bottle contains half a fluid ounce.

Smaller packages of three bottles come at $1.50.

How about your budding artist friends? For them I've found oil paintings by number sets at 79 cents. One set includes two 6" by 8" pictures in a choice of two ballerinas, a cowboy and an Indian; two clowns or a winter and a spring scene. There are nine oil colors and a thinner in a plastic palette. Beauty of this Sis, especially for the young inexpert hand is that if you make a mistake, it can be cleaned off with the thinner and painted again.

Hope you're getting into the spirit of things. If you are, you'll call me to find out where I shopped.

THE BETTER HALF

DEAR ABBY . . .

Code of Ethics

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In our class, us we can't keep our dog. He at school we got into a big discussion about "tattling" and we would like to know how you feel about the subject. Thank you.—HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS.

DEAR STUDENTS: For some reason, teachers and even parents teach young people that it is "unethical" or downright disgraceful for one child to tell someone in authority that another child has disobeyed, misbehaved or even broken the law. Is it any wonder we have hoodlums and vandals who count it a virtue not to "squeal"?

This is not to be confused with running to Mamma or the teacher with "Johnny hit me!" If children are to grow up with a sense of civic duty, they cannot be taught that it is "noble" to remain silent when they know who has destroyed public property or committed other serious anti-social acts. (It is their parents who must pay for such deeds.) Also it is unfair that a guilty child should "get by" unpunished; the next time he will try something a little bolder. I think it is time we adults reviewed our attitude on "tattling."

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I rented this apartment, we specifically asked if we could keep our dog with us. The landlord said, "Yes, if the dog is quiet and well-behaved." Our dog is quiet and well-behaved, unless a stranger comes around. We have been here less than a month and the landlord tells

Mrs. S. C. Cornish, Mrs. G. K. Harvey, Mrs. G. L. Levy, general convener, and Mrs. R. H. McCrimmon, work on last minute sewing for St. Matthias Ladies' Evening Guild Christmas bazaar to be held in the parish hall, 600 Richmond Road, on Saturday, commencing at 2 p.m. There will be stalls of home baking, Christmas decorations, aprons, sewing and knitted novelties; cups and saucers, linens, mystery parcels and a garden table. Tea will be served. Proceeds will be used to assist in paying for new pews donated by the guild for the church gallery.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Men, Arise! Smash That Bay Window By Exercise

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The familiar bay window is man's most usual figure defect. When the lean look of youth is replaced by this absurdity, it's time to start exercising as well as dieting.

Therefore, abdominal exercises are valuable for men as well as for women. The exercises printed yesterday are fine for men, too, but they seem to like the two following ones better.

Lie on the floor on your back, in a straight line—arms over head and legs straight. Raise your arms and trunk and touch your fingers to your toes. Lower trunk and arms to the floor. If you can't keep your feet on the floor, ask someone to hold them down or tuck them under a divan. Keep the knees stiff.

Another: Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms on the floor at your sides. Raise both legs halfway up (with stiff knees) as you raise your trunk halfway up like a jackknife.

At the same time, swing the arms forward and upward to a shoulder height position. Hold for a second or so and return arms, legs and trunk to the floor.

Here are two exercises for keeping or improving those broad shoulders. Stand tall. Extend your arms out at your sides, shoulder-height position, palms facing the floor. Raise and lower arms, up and down, no more than six to eight inches in each direction. After a time rest and continue.

Another: Take the same starting position. This time make small circles with your arms, elbows stiff. Circle first in one direction and then in the other.

This week I have been suggesting to you that it would be fun and also a health bonus if you would exercise together as a family once a day. You apartments and have yet to find a lady who will live more than four blocks from a bus line.—NOT LOOKING.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DIXIE AND JOE: Heaven can wait. Graduate!

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Festival Entries To Be Judged

Decision was made at meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service, to have entries in the annual Festival of Christmas Decorations judged officially instead of by popular vote as in former years.

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia will present the prizes.

It was reported by Mrs. L. Noon, treasurer, that $101.50 was realized at a rummage sale.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice FarmerDon't Use Tracing Wheel On Fine Fabrics

"What takes tracing paper marks out of white lace? The tracing paper marks went through the lace and show on the right side."

MRS. R. L. H.

Dear Mrs. R. L. H.: This is one of the hazards of using a sewing aid that can't be used on all fabrics. I would suggest you consult a professional cleaner, to see if they can remove these marks. If not, write to the company who made the tracing paper and see if they can help you.

Actually, I don't believe in using a tracing wheel on any fine fabrics because there is always the chance that something like this might happen.

IS ONE FACE CREAM "JUST AS GOOD" AS ANOTHER?

True, lots of creams are similar in doing a surface job only. But if your need is for a treatment cream that will effectively halt early-aging signs such as crow's feet, little lines, flakiness, then POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM is the answer. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, goes to work in just 10 minutes to repair skin robbed of natural moisture. Allantoin floats off lifeless surface skin cells . . . speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to thirsty tissues far below. Almost overnight, skin dried out by harsh weather, indoor heat, low-fat diets, regains its softness, smoothness . . . looks young again! Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

A Bon Voyage Party

Mrs. Kenneth Wills was hostess at a bon voyage party last Friday at her Neil Street home in honor of Miss Amy Wills, who leaves on Nov. 22 aboard the S.S. Oriana for an extended visit in New Zealand and Australia. The honor guest was presented with a corsage on arrival. Travel aid gifts were concealed in a box topped with a miniature of the Oriana. Others present were Mrs. J. Mahood, Mrs. E. Rowell, Mrs. A. Wills, Mrs. P. Wills, Mrs. M. Young, Mrs. P. Lamont, Mrs. W. R. McIntyre, Mrs. F. Willis, Mrs. J. Good, Misses Connie Chow, Alison Chow, Ronnie Neary, Bessie Thomas, Ethel Johns, Ruth MacKenzie and Edith Jeune. The hostess was assisted by her three daughters, Pat, Joanne and Pam. Next year Miss Wills plans to go on from the Antipodes to England through the Suez Canal before returning to Victoria next fall.

In the Heather

Gifts were conceded in a "wee house among the heather" at a shower held in the Old Esquimalt Road home of Mrs. J. Henniss for Miss Barbara Ana McCormick. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. H. Henniss. Carnation corsages were presented to the bride-elect, to her sister, Mrs. N. Webber, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. J. D. Forgie. Other guests were Mrs. W. McKim, Mrs. J. Regan, Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. K. Knight, Mrs. W. Tashjian, Mrs. D. Schroeder, Mrs. M. Stovel, Mrs. P. Macklin, Mrs. C. McConachie, Mrs. B. Kieff, Mrs. M. Morris, Mrs. E. Anderson, New Westminster; Miss J. Jelinski and Miss L. Stovel.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Blaney with Kathleen, Andrew and Michael.

Mrs. and Mrs. Reg N. Rawlings of this city will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their son, Mr. R. C. Rawlings in Glenbow, Man., on November 24. They were married in Wablon, Sask., and have lived in Victoria for 12 years, their present home being at 1111 Leonard Street. They also have one daughter, Mrs. William McGraw, Yorkton, Sask.; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. (Kandid Kamera.)

Left Saturday

Miss Marion Curtis left by air on Saturday to return to the Solomon Islands where she has been matron of the Anglican Mission at Faubau for the past five years. Originally from Auckland, New Zealand, Miss Curtis has just completed seven months furlough which saw her visiting all western European countries with the exception of Portugal. While in Victoria the visitor was the house guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. Margison, in their home on Vining Street.

For New Kitchen

Miss Bernice Smith, whose marriage to Mr. James Williams took place in First Baptist Church on Monday, was honored at a kitchen shower in the Forbes Street home of Mrs. Dan Harrison. White carnations en corsage were presented to the guest of honor and pink carnation corsages were received by her mother, Mrs. Wilfred Smith, and grandmother, Mrs. A. Middleton. Gifts were in a wishing well, decorated in blue and white and pink roses. Autumn flowers and greenery centred the lace-covered refreshment table. Guests included Mrs. J. Flinn, Mrs. A. Clyde, Mrs. A. Jackman, Mrs. A. Coles, Mrs.

Vows Heard in Oak Bay Church

Carolyn Dianne Tribe and Brian Vernon Green were married recently in St. Patrick's Church with Fr. M. Costelloe officiating. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Tribe, 2041 Chaucer Street, and Capt. and Mrs. Vernon Green, 950 Joan Crescent. Chrysanthemums of mixed colors and pew markers of white satin ribbon decorated the church. Mrs. L. Gill was organist. Bride was given in marriage by her father. Her traditional white satin gown featured lily-of-the-valley pattern sleeves and a lace bodice with scalloped neckline. Full-length skirt was panelled touched with sequined flowers. Miss Judy Rutledge and Miss Joan Green, sister of the groom, were in identical gowns of pink orchid nylon organza, posed over dainty scalloped lace. All attendants had white accessories and carried bronze chrysanthemums. Best man was Michael Green and ushers were Norman LaVerde and Patrick Mulcahy.

Bert Thirlwell proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held in the War Amputations Hall. Pink roses topped a three-tier wedding cake that centred head table. White candles in crystal candelabra completed decor.

As her going-away ensemble the bride chose a shocking pink Italian knit sheath, white coat, black and white beaver pill box hat and black accessories. Corsage was of pink roses and feathered chrysanthemums.

After a honeymoon in the United States newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Jury Handpicked Counsel Charges

NELSON (CP)—A charge by counsel that the jury was handpicked featured opening of a trial here Monday of John A. Makoroff.

Makoroff is charged with unlawfully making an explosive device and making an explosive device with intent in connection with discovery of an unexploded bomb at Castlegar in March, 1960. The bomb was found on the premises of Ogilvie Bros. building supply firm.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson rejected the jury challenge by defence counsel H. L. Dean, of Vancouver. Dean declared that while over half the Kootenay county's population is of Slavic origin, only one out of 48 names appearing on the jurors' list was Slavic.

WOMEN EXCLUDED

He said this suggested partiality. He said case had also been taken to exclude women.

And also claimed there was local prejudice against Doukhobors here.

Mr. Justice Wilson said, after a brief recess, that the challenge "is not tenable under the law and even if it were permissible I would reject counsel's challenge because I do not think the facts he brought before me are justified". He ordered the trial to continue.

LEADERS IN COURT

Meanwhile two Sons of Freedoms appeared in court on charges connected with terrorism and were remanded on $10,000 bail each until November 21.

Peter Elasoff, secretary of the radical sect's fraternal council, and Bill Mojelsky, an aid to spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin, were charged with possession of explosives and counselling an indictable offence of arson respectively.

Crown Counsel G. B. Arnesen said more serious charges are being contemplated.

The arrest of four other Freedoms in this south East Kootenay area of British Columbia brought to 39 the number charged in the largest RCMP crackdown in 10 years in the region.

City council's special City Hall committee Monday decided to meet with the centennial committee in an effort to clear up confusion surrounding

B.C. Officials Huddle Over Seizure Suit

Officials of the attorney-general's department are studying the legality of an attempt to challenge the B.C. Electric take-over terms in the courts.

In the meantime, they would not comment on the attempt, made Monday by B.C. Power Corporation in a statement of claim to the B.C. Supreme Court.

One official said the claim would be checked against the Constitutional Questions Determination Act to ensure it is valid.

The act provides that notice be given not only to the B.C. attorney-general, but also to the attorney-general of Canada before any court hearing begins.

BONNER AWAY

Attorney-General Robert Bonner was not available for comment as he is in eastern Canada.

Key argument in the suit is expected to centre around the constitutional question—the challenge to the Power Development Act, passed in the August special session to accomplish the take-over.

Act of the legislature have been challenged in the past—most recent occasion was an unsuccessful bid by a Vancouver oil workers' union to have ultra vires labor legislation declared ultra vires in 1951.

But, he added, he did not think the forestry department had acquired sufficient property for its building at the Burnside Road site.

"The reeve has in mind about 20 acres of land south of the Trans-Canada Highway, between Burnside and Admirals, where it is proposed to establish a light industrial estate.

The reeve's suggestion follows receipt of a letter from all "parties" interested in the planning of Victoria College Gordon Head campus, requesting council to reconsider its recommendation that the proposed laboratory be located at Gordon Head.

The reeve and other groups had suggested the Gordon Head site for the building.

HAND THAT ROCKS CRADLE KEEPS BOOKS

Nigerian Women Handle the Money

NEW YORK (AP)—If you've been worrying about the women of Africa being down-trodden, you can probably forget it as far as Western Nigeria is concerned.

"The well-to-do people of Nigeria are the women," said Mrs. Emily Akintola, in an interview while her son an unofficial visit with her husband, the Prime Minister of Western Nigeria.

"Nigerian women have all the money," she added. "Men give us the freedom to do what we want. They never mind if we're in business."

The tall, dignified wife of Chief Samuel Ladoke Akintola, who leads the western region of Africa's largest Negro nation, is one of her country's successful businesswomen. She imports cement and other materials from Germany, keeps a knowing eye on the New York and London stock exchanges.

She's been a trader since she was 13. Her father, chief of the forest rangers, gave her the first money to set up a little shop to sell hats and materials in front of her home in Lagos. "I didn't have time to hawk about with a round tray on my head, like other women do, because I was going to school."

TRADITIONAL ROLE

Buying and selling of goods has been the traditional role of women throughout West Africa, and Mrs. Akintola inherited a sharp trader's sense from her mother. But she shakes her head over her two daughters, aged 20 and 25, the oldest of her five children. The elder girl is married, the younger is studying medicine in Dublin, and neither has the slightest interest in trading.

She thinks women are better at business than men, and that they should help out with the family income if their work doesn't disrupt home life.

The Akintolas, who have been married 26 years, live in a government-built, two-story, four-bedroom house in the suburbs of the capital, Ibadan. She does a lot of her own housework and practically all cooking in spite of having domestic help.

Although she's a graduate of the Paris Dress Design Academy in London, which she attended while her husband was studying law, Mrs. Akintola wears only Nigerian dress: loose blouse, wrap-around skirt and turban. Ornaments include bracelets, earrings, and a U.S. $10 gold piece on a chain around her neck.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Carolyn Claiborne, age 14, of Lafayette, Tenn., for her question:

Is It True that Lightning Fertilizes the Soil?

Our crops of golden corn grow from seed to harvest in three months of long, summer days. To produce 25 bushels of ripe corn, the plants take 36 pounds of nitrogen from the soil, plus about six pounds of phosphorus, 21 pounds of potassium and three pounds of calcium. When the crop is harvested and the tall stalks taken away, these and other necessary chemicals are taken from the soil. In order for new plants to grow, these chemicals must be replaced by fertilizers and a tiny portion of this work is done by the flashing lightning.

Plants poke their finger-like roots through the soil to find moisture and the chemicals dissolved in it. Each plant needs its own special diet of chemicals, though there are about 20 basic chemicals needed by all plants in some degree. Each plant uses its hydrogen.

The wise farmer adds a balanced diet of chemicals to his soil with fertilizers. He also may plant a crop of legume plants to supply nitrogen to his soil. For nitrogen is one of the chemicals needed by all plants. There is plenty of nitrogen gas available, for it makes up four-fifths of the air. But this vast supply will not do. For plants must have their nitrogen fixed, or mixed with other elements. Certain bacteria which grow on the roots of pea and bean plants are able to fix nitrogen from the air in compounds with hydrogen.

The flashing lightning also fixes nitrogen and makes it available for plants. However, it provides only a small amount of the nitrogen needed by the plant world and the method of fixation is very complex. The searing flash is a violent discharge of electrical energy rippling through the moist air of a cloud. It causes nitrogen to unite with oxygen in the air to form nitric oxide, a compound which is no use at all to the plant world.

As the nitric oxide cools, it gathers more oxygen and becomes nitrogen dioxide. This compound reacts with water. It gathers hydrogen and more oxygen to form nitric acid. Diluted with more water, this strong chemical sinks through the soil where it comes in contact with assorted minerals. Finally it forms nitrates, the compounds of nitrogen necessary for plant growth. Most of the nitrates needed by the plant world, however, are provided by manures and bacteria in the soil. The farmer may add chemical nitrates as fertilizers.

Nitrogen is necessary for the making of protoplasm, the magic fluid which fills all living cells, plant and animal. Proteins are made from nitrogen compounds. Sometimes, a rare flash of lightning will provide the nitrogen compounds to feed a plant which may some day feed us.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Barry Eckert, age 14, of Strasburg, Penna., for his question:

What is an alluvial fan?

An alluvial fan is a fairly common formation where streams run down uneven slopes. Fast-running water can carry along more debris than slow-moving water. Down a high slope, a stream may sweep along a great load of silt and gravel. Suddenly the slope meets a flat plain or the angle changes to make it more gradual. The stream is forced to slow down and here the running water must dump some of its debris.

The shape of the ground and the natural forces of moving water build the growing deposit into a fan shape. The

"I've got a bar in my dressing room but some slob put some flowers on it," squawked Gleason.

Producer David Susskind broke in to say that despite the kiss girls for a living," remarked Charlton Heston, who does, "one of the occupational diseases is likely to be round-shoulderedness which you get from playing opposite very short broads."

Heston, 6 feet 2½ inches, dining with his wife at the Forum, went on to say, "I don't like to knock such prettily-built girls as Anne Baxter, Yvonne De Carlo, Betty Hutton, Gloria Grahame and Haya Harareet. But you can't keep kissing girls like that without getting a kick in your back."

Looking pensively into his scotch-and-water, he added, "Oh, being a leading man isn't all wine and roses, you know!"

Anyway, continued Chuck, "Fortunately the last two girls—Elsa Martinelli and Sophia Loren—were nice and tall. In 'El Cid' I had to make love to Sophia Loren and that was what I call a comfortable way to make a living."

All my intellectual readers out there (Hi, both of you!) will want to know that in Spain it's pronounced "El Theed" in South America "El Sid," in the U.S. "El Sid" as in Sid Caesar, and in the Bronx and Brooklyn as "El Sidney."

Revolution In Trade Beginning

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

(First of Four Articles)

The entire economic apparatus of the free world, and hence its political arrangements, are now moving rapidly toward the supreme watershed of modern history.

This revolution—for it is nothing less—has been precipitated by three profound decisions: The creation of the European Common Market, Britain's entry into the new continental economy and the United States' attempt to broaden that experiment into a free world economic community.

But those events are only the overt signs, the mere beginning of the revolution.

Whether it will succeed or fail is by no means certain yet. Either way, the affairs of Canada must soon be transformed. While that transformation is the immediate concern of the Canadian people, it is a minor aspect of the great shift which, barring nuclear war, must eventually decide the world struggle between freedom and Communism.

All these reductions will apply to every member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, including Canada, but later on Canada also will be asked, probably compelled, to revise its whole tariff structure.

As explained by Washington officials who are managing the present complex bargain, it cannot be revolutionary in its immediate effects, since President Kennedy has little elbow room for negotiation under existing laws.

Nevertheless it is a decisive step toward his ultimate goal of a freely-trading free world. It is the pledge and warranty of his government's intentions, the first pier of a commercial bridge across the Atlantic.

Common Market Must Open Door

For the moment the United States will be satisfied if it can persuade the Common Market to reduce its proposed external tariff on many kinds of industrial goods by about 20 per cent and thus to avoid a restrictive import policy menacing to the outside world, especially to the Commonwealth.

Negotiations to this end are now at the final, critical stage but the United States government believes they will succeed before the end of the year at latest. If so, a grave danger will be forestalled in the nick of time and a chance of further progress will be assured.

The exact amounts of the tariff reductions and the commodities involved are a secret more closely guarded than any

JFK Crossing 'Rubicon of Career'

As an economic statesman he practices with the long-run goal of eliminating industrial tariffs altogether, some years hence.

For the President the drastic overhaul of trade policy represents a daring political adventure second in significance and risk only to the preservation of peace. Indeed, were it not for the current military crisis, the decisions now being taken at Washington would dwarf all other news in the world.

Mr. Kennedy's economic demarche has been over-

Guests Rescued As Hotel Burns

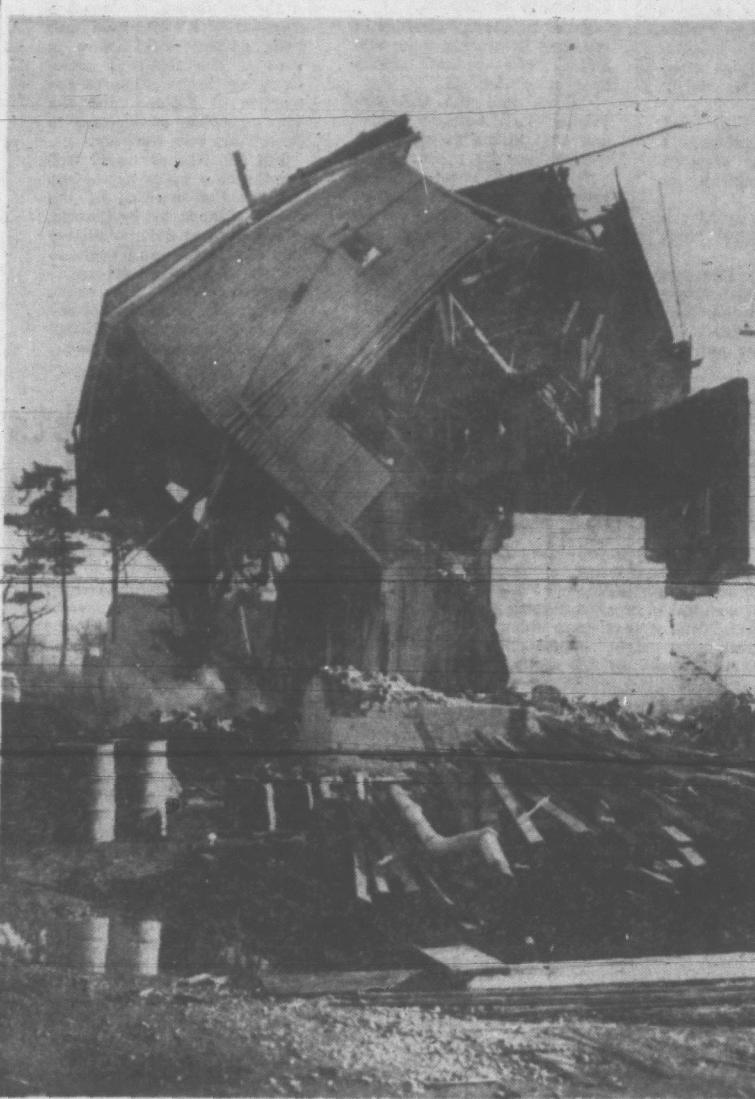

SASKATOON (CP) — The 109-room King Edward Hotel here crumbled in ashes Monday night in a spectacular fire which was no sooner extinguished than the four-block-distant Gatineau Club went up in flames.

Police said today they did not believe any of the 11 persons still unaccounted for from the hotel fire had been trapped, although the ruins still were too hot to search.

They said the guests were believed either not in the hotel or to have escaped without notifying anyone. Names of the 11 persons were listed in the hotel guest register.

S. Africa Under New Fire

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A special United Nations committee today heaped new condemnation on South Africa only a few hours after a 103-member General Assembly special political committee voted denunciation of South Africa for its racial separation policies.

The nine-member, especially appointed committee on Southwest Africa published the second of its reports on South Africa's disputed administration of the vast southwest territory.

The first, issued three weeks ago, recommended that the UN oust South Africa from its mandate power in the territory, expel its military forces, halt immigration of whites into the territory, and turn its administration over to non-whites who would be trained by the UN to govern.

Today's report, written on the basis of complaints from natives and their white sympathizers, called for South Africa to end the use of force against the natives, to halt enforcement of apartheid measures in the territory, and to release 17 Negroes charged with violence in the Windhoek riots in December, 1959.

TO BE REVIEWED

The assembly trusteeship committee and the assembly itself will review the reports in turn.

The committee, in a draft resolution, charged South Africa has reinforced its troops in the territory; that local police raided native homes, and that South Africa's policy is one of oppression of the natives that has resulted in bloodshed.

Despite two heavily adverse votes in the UN special political committee Monday night, South Africa apparently weathered the storm as far as expulsion or sanctions are concerned.

Twice within an hour the 103-member committee hammered South Africa by approving resolutions that in the overall

MELODIOUS RUN FOR THE ROSES

Four young Vancouver Island musicians have a chance of winning a place in the famous Robin Hood Band which parades every New Year's Day at the Pasadena Tournament of Roses. Chosen at recent auditions, they are (from left), Gary Brandon, 17, Oak Bay High School; Eileen Hay, 15, Alberni High School; Joan Marsh, 17, Victoria High; Terry Lowry, 17, Nanaimo High. It is expected at least one of them will be chosen for the 125-piece band, sponsored by the Independent Order of Foresters.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1961—PAGE 13

... HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Back to New Zealand this month go Bert Stark and his wife Ethel of 644 Speed Street.

They have lived in Victoria 13 years and have made dozens of friends, but . . .

"Life down there seems more sane—more leisurely," says Bert. "They haven't got TV and they aren't worried about it. Nor are they worried over going into debt with every new craze that comes along. They seem to enjoy life without these manias."

Significantly, Bert isn't a native New Zealander. He hails from Winnipeg; yet New Zealand seems to be his spiritual home. He went there in 1937, stayed until 1948, then came to Victoria.

"We've had a wonderful time," he said, "and we have so many good friends here I weep to leave them. But somehow there's always something insecure about Canada. You don't feel that way in New Zealand."

On the phone:

"Is that Civil Defence?"

"No, this is Reliable Wreckers Limited."

Songs of the desperate years ran through Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion on Remembrance Day.

Sailors, soldiers and airmen were there to join Ronnie Hannay in the singing of "There'll Be Bluebirds Over the White Cliffs of Dover," "Wish Me Luck as You Wave Me Goodbye" and "Pack Up Your Troubles."

Anne Halley kicked up her legs in the old music hall favorite, "Knees Up Mother Brown"; Jim Mayzes conducted the lively community singing and Humphrey Davy led the crowded company through the mysteries of "Alouette."

A local enthusiast told me a special new tartan was being designed for Victoria's Centennial Year in 1962.

I phoned the Tartan Shop on Government and received a horrified denial.

"That would be impossible," the spokesman said. "There is only one Victoria tartan and that is the Queen Victoria Tartan!"

I could almost hear the thunder of the canions as he spoke.

Tourism became Britain's fourth largest industry in 1960, the British Travel and Holidays Association says in its latest report.

"Yet," the association adds, "the people of Britain and the business community which benefits from tourism are not yet really tourist-minded."

Harmac Mill Expansion Under Study

J. V. Clyne, chairman of the board of MacMillan & Bloedel and Powell River Co., today confirmed reports the company is considering expansion of its Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo.

Any detailed announcement would be premature, he said, because preliminary engineering has yet to be done.

He indicated a definite decision on the extent of the possible expansion and proposed construction schedule will probably be made early next year.

CLEAR SITE

"In the meantime," he said, "the company intends to proceed with site-clearing operations as there is every likelihood that the company will expand its pulp production at Harmac either now or in the future."

"In view of this and in order to assist winter employment, it has been decided to do some of the site clearing work in the next few months."

Mr. Clyne said the company intended to keep its position flexible in view of changing world market conditions.

The effect of the European Common Market upon Canadian pulp production remained to be assessed, he said.

500 EMPLOYED

The company mill at Harmac now provides employment for 500 men. It is the largest employer in the Nanaimo area.

In addition to clearing operations at Harmac, Mr. Clyne said his company is spending about $7,000,000 in capital improvements at Powell River.

22,000 Pounds Versus 1,550 Pounds But Passenger Only Slightly Injured

An elderly man was sent to hospital today after the small 1,550-pound car in which he was a passenger was in collision with a 22,000-pound Victoria Fire Department aerial truck.

Clifford Hinder, 71, of 1337 George, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering abrasions to his face and hands and slight chest injuries.

The collision occurred about 9:15 this morning at the intersection of Yates and Cook Streets as the aerial truck was on its way from the No. 1 Fire Hall on Yates to a fire at the B.A. Paint Co. premises on Yates.

The car in which Mr. Hinder was riding was driven by Alexander Craib, 103 Bushby, police said.

According to officers the car was headed north on Cook and had the green traffic light at the intersection with Yates. The driver, they said, didn't hear the fire truck's siren.

Damage to the car was described as "considerable."

The fire truck was driven by Gordon Hansen, 3142 Jackson. Only damage to it was a dented left front mudguard.

The fire at BAPOCO turned out to be minor—a pile of sawdust had ignited.

Cause of the fire is not known.

A 40-year-old Esquimalt man, William Mendres, was killed Jan. 27 this year when his car was crushed by a 12-ton fire pumper at the intersection of Johnson and Quadra in similar circumstances to today's mishap.

He was 65.

He had been in hospital for a week.

Mr. Ingramham is survived by the widow, a son and a daughter, all living in Victoria.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Andrew D. Ingalls, 3450 Richmond, $40 for careless driving.

Charlotte Bellak, 1135 Rockland, $35 for careless driving.

Suzanne Dearman, 2435 Musgrave, $40 and licence suspended for careless driving.

Robert James Bugg Jr., 178 Helmcken, $20 and licence suspended for speeding over 30.

Robert Leonard Blake, 3042 Wascana, $20 and licence suspended for speeding over 30.

He was 77.

Mr. Sutherland also worked on the construction of the ill-fated liner Titanic and was responsible for designing the armoured crests in Holyrood House.

A member of the St. Andrews and Caledonia Lodge, AF & AM, he was retired and had lived in Victoria for 20 years.

He is survived by three daughters and two sons, all in the United States.

Final Columbia Hearing Set for Nov. 21 in City

A final wrap-up public hearing on the Columbia River power project will be held in Victoria Nov. 21.

It will be the last in a series of hearings necessary before the B.C. water rights branch grants a licence to the B.C. Power Commission to build dams on the Columbia.

Hearings were held in the Kootenays in October and early this month.

The Victoria hearing will be in the Empress Hotel, and is to deal with technical matters.

A government spokesman said the issues arise out of matters discussed at the earlier hearings.

Interested parties involved will be invited to attend.

New Blanshard Route Given

Extension To Follow Rose Street

A route plan for extending Blanshard Street from Arena Way instead of its present terminal at Hillside was approved today by city public works committee.

The route, running generally along the line of Rose Street, still has to be approved by city council.

It will run through the centre of several areas proposed for urban renewal, cut through between Holyrood House and the Bay Street Armory, skirt the west boundary of C.J. Willis Junior High School's playgrounds, slice off the southwest corner of Topaz Park and border the rear frontage of the Baker Brick and Tile property.

COST $800,000

City portion of the extension, estimated to cost about $800,000, will end at Tolmie. The provincial government plans to carry on the extension through Saanich, behind the Town and Country Shopping Plaza and onto the Patricia Bay Highway.

City engineer J.C. Garnett said relocating Blanshard Street westward starting at Memorial Arena would permit the most economical development of the extension.

Right-of-way would be 100 feet to provide a four-lane expressway with an additional 50-foot width added for landscaping of the northern portion of the extension.

CURVE WESTWARD

Present parking islands in front of Memorial Arena will be wiped out to enable the start of the extension to curve westward across the block-long McBride Street then strike northward along Rose Street.

At Topaz Avenue, where Rose ends, the road would make a gentle curve westward again, to keep from slicing more than a tip of Topaz Park, and return to the northerly direction west and parallel to Alder Street as far as the city limit at Tolmie Avenue.

A number of smaller cross streets would be blocked off to permit the extension's use as an expressway into the downtown area.

Underpasses would be built alongside the rear of Baker Brick and Tile property to permit cars to enter and leave the expressway if a major shopping centre is developed at that site as proposed by Vancouver interests.

If the route plan is approved, a $6,000 engineering survey will be undertaken to determine grades and specific routing and provide an accurate estimate of costs.

According to officers the car was headed north on Cook and had the green traffic light at the intersection with Yates. The driver, they said, didn't hear the fire truck's siren.

Damage to the car was described as "considerable."

The fire truck was driven by Gordon Hansen, 3142 Jackson. Only damage to it was a dented left front mudguard.

The fire at BAPOCO turned out to be minor—a pile of sawdust had ignited.

Cause of the fire is not known.

A 40-year-old Esquimalt man, William Mendres, was killed Jan. 27 this year when his car was crushed by a 12-ton fire pumper at the intersection of Johnson and Quadra in similar circumstances to today's mishap.

He was 65.

He had been in hospital for a week.

Mr. Ingramham is survived by the widow, a son and a daughter, all living in Victoria.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Andrew D. Ingalls, 3450 Richmond, $40 for careless driving.

Charlotte Bellak, 1135 Rockland, $35 for careless driving.

Suzanne Dearman, 2435 Musgrave, $40 and licence suspended for careless driving.

Robert James Bugg Jr., 178 Helmcken, $20 and licence suspended for speeding over 30.

Robert Leonard Blake, 3042 Wascana, $20 and licence suspended for speeding over 30.

He was 77.

Mr. Sutherland also worked on the construction of the ill-fated liner Titanic and was responsible for designing the armoured crests in Holyrood House.

A member of the St. Andrews and Caledonia Lodge, AF & AM, he was retired and had lived in Victoria for 20 years.

He is survived by three daughters and two sons, all in the United States.

Arrangements are in charge of McCall Bros.

PRIZEWINNERS from 100 dolls made by city youngsters for children of Hong Kong are held by Denise Poynz, 2052 Avondale. Judges in the second annual competition were home economic teachers. (Times Photo.)

12-YEAR-OLD NAMED WINNER

Doll Contest to Cheer Children of Hong Kong

Christmas for many a child in Hong Kong will be brighter this year with the gift of a gaily costumed doll.

In co-operation with the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, the Hudson's Bay Company ran its second annual competition in doll-making for children of Greater Victoria.

The youngsters, or their parents, bought a face and white sock kit and dressed them up, the only stipulation being that material had to be scraps from around home and not bought.

Currently on display at the store, the dolls will be flown to Hong Kong in time for Christmas.

The competition is an adjunct to the annual USC campaign for funds and clothing in aid of needy families in developing areas abroad.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, USC executive director, will address a public meeting in support of the campaign Monday at 8 p.m. in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, Courtney Street.

Winner of this year's doll competition was 12-year-old Beverly Davies, 3365 Painter. Second and third were Sharon Westcott, 14, of 1040 Fairfield, and Joan Hodgkinson, 13, of 3840 Cumberland.

Two New Agencies to Pave Way For Harmony on Peace Project

Joint negotiations between all labor unions and all employers on the Peace River power project were established today as each side set up a special "labor council."

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson announced approval by the Labor Relations Board of certificates to the two bodies.

The Allied Hydro Council will represent all unions involved in Peace River jobs.

The Peace River Power Construction Co. Ltd. will represent the B.C. Electric and all sub-contractors.

POOL RESOURCES

The unions and employers affected have already agreed to pool resources in the two new agencies.

Mr. Peterson said this will avoid the possibility of a single union's dispute holding up the entire project.

BULLETINS

39 Killed In Election

MANILA (UPI) — Vice-President Diosdado Macapagal, the opposition Liberal Party candidate, held a narrow lead early today (Wednesday) over President Carlos P. Garcia in scattered unofficial returns from the Philippine presidential election.

An estimated 7,000,000 votes were cast in Tuesday's balloting that followed one of the most violent campaigns in the nation's history. At least 39 persons were reported killed and 44 seriously injured in pre-election disorders during the 10-month campaign.

Baby Shot Dead

ESTAIRE, Ont. (UPI) — A 17-month-old girl was shot to death in her home near here today and her mother was taken to hospital with self-inflicted wounds.

The double shooting was discovered by the father of the family, Rolli Goulett, an Ontario Highways Department employee, when he returned from work this morning to pick up some tools.

Singer Arrested

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ray Charles, jazz singer and pianist, was arrested on a narcotics charge in his hotel room today.

Detectives reported heroin and marijuana seized, along with a hypodermic needle, eye-dropper and other equipment.

Tugboat Captain Slain, 2 Wounded

PORTRTHUR (CP) — A tugboat captain died and two others were gravely wounded in a triple shooting in a downtown apartment block just before midnight, police said today.

Dead is Jack MacKenzie of Fort William. In hospital fighting for their lives are Victor Lindberg, 61, and Mrs. Alice Forsberg, 43. Both were listed in grave condition after undergoing extensive surgery.

S. Africa Under New Fire

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A special United Nations committee today heaped new condemnation on South Africa only a few hours after a 103-member General Assembly special political committee voted denunciation of South Africa for its racial separation policies.

The nine-member, especially appointed committee on Southwest Africa published the second of its reports on South Africa's disputed administration of the vast southwest Africa territory.

The first, issued three weeks ago, recommended that the UN oust South Africa from its mandate power in the territory, expel its military forces, halt immigration of whites into the territory, and turn its administration over to non-whites who would be trained by the UN to govern.

Today's report, written on the basis of complaints from natives and their white sympathizers, called for South Africa to end the use of force against the natives, to halt enforcement of apartheid measures in the territory, and to release 17 Negroes charged with violence in the Windhoek riots in December, 1959.

TO BE REVIEWED
The assembly trusteeship committee and the assembly itself will review the reports in turn.

The committee, in a draft resolution, charged South Africa has reinforced its troops in the territory, that local police raided native homes, and that South Africa's policy is one of oppression of the natives that has resulted in bloodshed.

Despite two heavily adverse votes in the UN special political committee Monday night, South Africa apparently weathered the storm as far as expulsion or sanctions are concerned.

Twice within an hour the 103-member committee hammered South Africa by approving resolutions that in the overall

MOCK ATTACK 'DESTROYS' 15 CITIES

Wailing Sirens Run Wild

OTTAWA (CP) — An imaginary force of 250 bombers and 70 missiles swept over North America during the night and turned 15 Canadian cities into theoretical nuclear war graveyards.

But however theoretical the disaster was, it created plenty of real trouble, virtually from coast to coast. The warning sirens just wouldn't co-operate. They started too soon or too late; they failed to sound at all; they were either too loud or too quiet, and they started at least one fire.

The simulated attack that was supposed to have created havoc across Canada and even spread into the United States was the first phase of exercise Tocsin B, the second nationwide test this year of Canada's national warning system and its survival plans. (See also Page 3.)

One of the first persons assumed killed when a bomb hit downtown Sparks Street, a block from Parliament Hill, as the sirens wailed. Only one of the six knew why they were sounding.

And siren trouble came early and fast at Vancouver and Ottawa.

In Ottawa, sirens sounded prematurely during what was to have been a "silent" test of their electrical circuits early in the day.

In Vancouver short circuits set one siren on fire and caused 11 others to wail long past the scheduled three-minute warning period.

Lamented West Vancouver Fire Chief T. B. Flint McKim: "We had to put out the siren to save our firehall." Vancouver was hit by a missile in the mock attack.

Householders across the country will be asked later whether the sirens were effective.

In Montreal, many persons reported they didn't hear the city's 45 sirens at all. Police pushed the proper buttons in Sudbury's alert began seven minutes late.

Revolution In Trade Beginning

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The entire economic apparatus of the free world, and hence its political arrangements, are now moving rapidly toward the supreme watershed of modern history.

This revolution—for it is nothing less—has been precipitated by three profound decisions: The creation of the European Common Market, Britain's entry into the new continental economy and the United States' attempt to broaden that experiment into a free world economic community.

But those events are only the overt signs, the mere beginning of the revolution.

Whether it will succeed or fail is by no means certain yet. Either way, the affairs of Canada must soon be transformed. While that transformation is the immediate concern of the Canadian people, it is a minor aspect of the great shift which, barring nuclear war, must eventually decide the world struggle between freedom and Communism.

All these reductions will apply to every member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, including Canada, but later on Canada also will be asked, probably compelled, to revise its whole tariff structure.

As explained by Washington officials who are managing the present complex bargain, it cannot be revolutionary in its immediate effects, since President Kennedy has little elbow room for negotiation under existing laws. Nevertheless it is a decisive step toward his ultimate goal of a freely-trading free world. It is the pledge and warranty of his government's intentions, the first pier of a commercial bridge across the Atlantic.

The constructive opportunities and the destructive possibilities of the bewildering process now in flow will be explored in this series of dispatches but the first fact confronting a reporter in Ottawa and Washington today is quite clear—the United States already has started to lay the foundation of a free world economic community by offering
